

Pinot Grigio 2017...

What's in the bottle. A wine that is soft gold in colour, with pleasant reminders of citrus fruits, melon and honey as you gently nose the wine. Complex with dried honeysuckle giving way to pear and lemon meringue flavours, showing plenty of juicy intensity. This young wine was left lying on fine lees, giving a harmonious finish.

Pinot Grigio vintage 2017. While Windrush Estate Winery was still being planned, we set out to have a wine available once the winery construction was completed. Having a longtime relationship with legendary vintner, Jim Warren, we asked him to create something unique, elegant and intriguing. What was created was our 2017 Pinot Grigio. Wanting a style with restrained richness, the wine was aged 60 percent in stainless steel and 40 percent in neutral oak barrels and resting on its fine lees. The wine was left for a period to mature and develop the richness we sought while still retaining a fresh clean acidity. The fruit was sourced from a mixture of Beamsville Bench and Lincoln Lakeshore vineyards and aged under the supervision of Jim Warren. The wine was then blended carefully by Chief Winemaker Jonathan Boyle with the focus of finding the right balance for the wine to express itself and for you to enjoy.

Pinot Noir 2018...

What's in the bottle. Under the supervision of legendary Vintner, Jim Warren, and award winning Chief Winemaker, Jonathan Boyle, the result is a graceful Pinot Noir with a bright ruby colour and rich berry flavours, accented with hints of violets and raspberries on the palate. Cold soaked before fermentation to extract colour, this wine has been precisely temperature-controlled throughout its fermentation to help preserve its delicateness. Overall, this elegant wine is well balanced between a seam of bright berry fruit and a spicy toastiness from the oak.

Pinot Noir vintage 2018. Processed at the Windrush Estate Winery from grapes grown in Niagara-on-the-Lake at the award-winning Glen Elgin Vineyard, the wine envelops your palate. This Pinot Noir developed and matured in the vineyard in good health, following perfect summer heat. The purple grape clusters were hanging ready for hand picking, which kept the grapes intact for transfer to the winery. On arrival, Windrush winemakers gently began the process of de-stemming and crushing of the fruit before transferring into stainless tanks for its temperature-controlled fermentation. To bring out the tannin and colour, we allowed for 5 days of cold soaking of the fruit prior to ferment. During its time in tank, the must will be pumped over via our state-of-the-art automated system, allowing for a greater control of mixing skin with juice.
